

ORGANISATION

Basis of authority

The University of Queensland is established under the University of Queensland Act 1998, as amended (‘Act’). The University is also incorporated under the Companies Act 1910.

Functions

The University has the following functions:

- to drive the University to achieve its vision and strategic objectives;
- to provide leadership and guidance to the University;
- to ensure the University is financially sound and to manage the University's financial resources;
- to ensure the University is a world-class research and teaching institution;
- to ensure the University is an excellent employer;
- to ensure the University is a world-class research and teaching institution;
- to ensure the University is an excellent employer;
- to ensure the University is a world-class research and teaching institution;
- to ensure the University is an excellent employer;